

A CALL TO ACTION: COLORECTAL CANCER IN THE YOUNG - AN ALARMING TREND

Colorectal cancer is highly treatable if detected early, but because the standard screening age is 50, and patients often aren't aware of the symptoms of colorectal cancer, the disease is often overlooked in young people; thereby, resulting in lack of treatment and eventual diagnosis at later stages.

A CALL TO ACTION is designed to highlight and tackle this unmet medical need.

This program is intended for the healthcare practitioner on the frontlines.
There is no cost to attend but registration is required. Meals will be provided.

Religious Freedom for Life Issues

Health care in the United States is marked by extraordinary change. Not only is there continuing change in clinical practice due to technological advances, but the health care system in the United States is being challenged by both institutional and social factors as well. At the same time, there are a number of developments within the Catholic Church affecting the ecclesial mission of health care.

Our faith teaches us:

- God is creator of all.
- We are made in the image of God.
- God is the Lord of life and death not us.
- You shall not kill.

Join us as we explore from a Catholic perspective living wills, stem cell research, euthanasia, organ donation and other medical, legal and ethical issues involved in modern health care.

Panel Discussion to include:

- Mark Huddy, Diocesan Director of the Office for Social Concerns
- Amy VanDyke, Medical Ethicist, Mount Carmel Health System
- Peggy Wolock, Esq., Chapter Development & Special Project Lead, Legatus
