WHAT
 It is our humanity – determination, hope, empathy, caring, and passion – that gives us an advantage over breast cancer. The American Cancer Society Making Strides Against Breast Cancer walk is a powerful example of humanity in action. Last year in Columbus, the noncompetitive 3-mile walk welcomed more than 2,000 participants, raising awareness and more than $130,000.

Making Strides walks are the largest network of breast cancer awareness events in the nation, uniting nearly 300 communities to help end breast cancer.

WHO
 Making Strides Against Breast Cancer events bring together people who want to help save lives from breast cancer. People walk as individuals or on teams with family, friends, and coworkers. Event volunteers help with registration, logistics, and participant support.

WHY
 The American Cancer Society Making Strides Against Breast Cancer walk brings communities together to support each other. We honor those touched by the disease and raise awareness and funds to create a world free from the pain and suffering of breast cancer. Last year, more than 1 million participants helped raise more than $60 million.

YOUR DOLLARS AT WORK
 Because of the determination of Making Strides supporters like you, the American Cancer Society is there for people in every community affected by breast cancer, whether they're currently dealing with a diagnosis, may face one in the future, or will avoid it altogether because of education and risk reduction.
