

NIH GRANT WRITING WORKSHOP MARCH 27-29, 2023

iMERS

INTERACTIVE MENTORING TO ENHANCE RESEARCH SKILLS

Mon-Wed, Mar. 27-29, 2023
University of Kentucky Campus | Lexington, KY

We are pleased to accept applications for our Spring '23 Workshop on the University of Kentucky campus. Faculty at Minority Serving Institutions (MSIs) with promising science are encouraged to submit their application by Tuesday, Jan. 3, 2023, 5:00 PM EDT. Held in Lexington, Kentucky, this free event will cover airfare and hotel costs for those applicants selected to participate. The window for booking travel arrangements will occur Monday, Jan. 30 through Thursday, Mar. 9, 2023.

We encourage applicants to consider their possible workshop participation when scheduling courses and teaching activities for the new semester. The focus of this workshop will be on Pre-Award content for aspiring NIH grant writers:

- Didactic lectures on various aspects of grantsmanship
- Interactive exercises
- Access to a faculty mentor for personalized proposal development support following the workshop

Who Should Apply

This workshop is designed for the faculty of Minority Serving Institutions (MSIs). Ideal candidates will have outlined a research project and prepared a Specific Aims draft.

When to Apply

The application portal is open through Tuesday, Jan. 3, 2023, 5:00 PM EDT. All applicants will be notified of a final decision via email early January, 2023.

How to Apply

Please review these instructions prior to submitting your application.

Click the link at right and submit all required information. A Specific Aims draft is optional, but providing one will be weighed heavily in the decision-making process.

Application Deadline:

Tuesday, Jan. 3, 2023, 5:00 PM EDT

Notification to Applicants:

Early January, 2023 via email

Confirm Your Attendance By:

Tuesday, Jan. 24, 2023

Confirm Your Travel Between:

Jan. 30 - Mar. 9, 2023

Questions?

Contact Melissa Nickell
melissa.nickell@uky.edu

Helpful Links

University of Kentucky
ORIGIN Hotel
VisitLex

APPLY HERE

