

UK CAMPUS FALL WORKSHOP

NIH GRANT WRITING WORKSHOP OCTOBER 12-14, 2022

iMERS

INTERACTIVE MENTORING TO ENHANCE RESEARCH SKILLS

Wed-Fri, Oct. 12-14, 2022

University of Kentucky Campus | Lexington, KY

We are pleased to accept applications for our Fall 2022 Workshop on the University of Kentucky campus. Faculty at Minority Serving Institutions with promising science are encouraged to submit their application by August 15, 2022, 5:00 PM EDT. Held in Lexington, Kentucky, this free event will cover airfare and hotel costs for those applicants selected to participate. Please note that should you be accepted, the window for booking travel arrangements will occur September 7-28, 2022.

The workshop will focus on Pre-Award content for aspiring NIH grant writers:

- Didactic lectures on various aspects of grantsmanship
- Access to a faculty mentor for personalized proposal development support following the workshop
- Interactive exercises

Who Should Apply

This workshop is designed for the faculty of Minority Serving Institutions. Ideal candidates will have outlined a research project and prepared a Specific Aims draft.

When to Apply

The application portal is open through Monday, August 15, 2022, 5:00 PM EDT. All applicants will be notified of a final decision via email Monday, August 29th.

How to Apply

Click the link at right to access the application form and submit all required information. While a Specific Aims draft is optional, providing one in your application will be weighed heavily in the decision-making process.

Application Deadline:

Monday, August 15, 2022
5:00 PM EDT

Applicants Notified By:

Monday, August 29, 2022 via email

Travel Confirmation Will Occur:

September 7-28, 2022

Questions?

Contact Melissa Nickell
iMERS Program Coordinator
melissa.nickell@uky.edu
859-218-6524

Helpful Links

University of Kentucky
iMERS
ORIGIN Hotel
VisitLex

APPLY HERE

The iMERS program is located on the University of Kentucky campus and funded by NIGMS award R25GM125680